U.S. Warns Soviet On Naval Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — By early and stern warning, the Nixon administration is trying to discourage Moscow from building a major Soviet naval base in Cuba.

The Pentagon disclosed evidence Friday of what it said appears to be a submarine support base under construction in the harbor at Cienfuegos, possibly for use by missile-firing Polaris type subs now positioned in the Atlantic.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said, "while we have seen activity along this line as far as Cuba is concerned, it is a little early to determine the extent of Russian naval involvement there."

White House officials quickly responded by saying this country "would view the establishment of a strategic base in the Caribbean with utmost seriousness." However, no diplomatic representations have been made to Moscow.

Officials here immediately drew a parallel with the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, when President John F. Kennedy said peace in the Caribbean could be preserved if Soviet offensive weapons were removed from the area and kept out in the future.

This continues to be U.S. policy, said one White House official who declined to be quoted by name.

But it is obvious the magnitude of the new naval development in Cuba is not the same as eight years ago when Russia placed offensive missiles on the island 90 miles from the U.S. mainland.

At that time, the Soviets had no Polaris-type submarines, and the United States held a clear military balance.

Today, with 13 nuclear-powered submarines armed with 16 missiles each and 15 more under construction, the Soviets can strike deep inside the United States without the need for based missiles in Cuba.

A base in Cuba would enable the Soviets to keep more submarines on station for longer periods of time without the need for returning to home ports for servicing and resupply. U.S. Polaris subs use bases at Holy Loch, Scotland; Rota, Spain, and on the Pacific island of Guam for this purpose.

Information on the Russian activity at Cienfuegos came from American U2 reconnaissance planes, the same aircraft which furnished the first solid proof of Russian missiles in Cuba on Oct. 14, 1962.

PRECEDENT — U.S. State Department officials said they hope Cuba's return of Robert J. Labadie (shown back in Miami, Fla.), 24, would set a precedent, but don't think it will. He faces charges in South Bend, Ind., of air piracy and kidnapping in the hijacking of a TWA airliner which flew him to Havana Aug. 24.

Campus Unrest Report Ready For President

Hint Government Being Blamed For Some Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — The closely guarded but already controversial report of the Presidential Commission on Campus Unrest arrives on President Nixon's desk today amid hints administration policy will be blamed for some disorders.

Republican politicians have rebutted talk of administration responsibility for collegiate violence with charges the commission was packed with liberals trying to excuse permissiveness.

The final report is scheduled to be made public at 6 p.m. A spokesman for the commission said special reports on violence at Kent State and Jackson State colleges, which claimed the lives of six students, will be made public next Monday or Tuesday.

Members of the nine-man commission, headed by former Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, have made few public statements about their three-month investigation.

When one member, Joseph R. Rhodes Jr., 22, of Harvard University, said he wanted to find out whether statements by President Nixon and Vice President Agnew "are killing people," the vice president called for his resignation.

Rhodes, one of four Negroes on the panel, refused to resign and said later he believes the President is making sincere efforts to reduce violence and unrest.

Rhodes told an audience at West Virginia State College Friday a vast social war is developing and the Nixon administration is partly responsible.

He discounted speculation the commission report would be an indictment of the way the administration has handled student disorders. But he said commission members "are in the business of informing everybody of how he's — Nixon's — contributing to the problem."

'Oh, Calcutta' Television Show Rapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for the Federal Communications Commission said Friday no intervention was anticipated against the nationwide, closed-circuit television showing Monday of "Oh, Calcutta," the sexually liberated off Broadway show.

The announcement came in reaction to a request from Charles Keating Jr., of Cincinnati to investigate the scheduled showing. Keating is a member of the President's Commission on Obscenity and Pornography.

Keating contends the distribution of a videotape of the show to some 100 cities across the country raises the question of whether the common carrier, the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., is complying with legal prohibitions against the communication of obscenity.

The FCC spokesman said the user of transmission facilities and not the common carrier was restricted by anti-obscenity prohibitions.

The spokesman said the FCC would continue to study the issue as Keating had requested.

Keating has filed a suit in Cincinnati to block Monday's showing of the videotape.

U.S. To Replenish Arms For King Hussein's Forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Defense Department official says the United States will replenish arms and ammunition Jordan lost in its war with Palestinian guerrillas and Syrians.

The aim is to make sure King Hussein's army has "a continuing military capability," Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard told newsmen Friday.

But the United States never planned to use its military power directly to prop up King Hussein's regime, Packard said. The possibility of U.S. intervention had been the topic of wide discussion in the administration earlier.

Packard assessed the Jordanian fighting in a breakfast meeting with a few reporters, including those from the Washington Post and the Evening Star, who detailed what took place.

"Though there is lots of speculation about why the Syrians pulled out, in my judgment one of the most important reasons was the Jordanian army's ability to give them a rough time."

The success of Hussein's forces without direct U.S. intervention showed the value of providing good military equipment and training to friendly nations, he said.

The Jordanian army has been equipped largely with American-made and British-made tanks and airplanes.

The amount and type of military aid Jordan might need has not been assessed, he said.

Packard said resupplying Jordan would not upset the balance between Israel and the Arab powers. He held out the possibility Israel would welcome a stable situation in Jordan.

He said the United States is greatly troubled by the Soviet Union's build-up of naval power in the Mediterranean and by the movement of Soviet anti-aircraft missiles in the Suez Canal zone.

If Russia's naval construction program continues at the same pace, he said, "four to five years from now we would find it difficult to put a carrier in the Mediterranean and protect it."

While Packard announced U.S. intentions to aid the Jordanian Army, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the situation there "seems to be improving."

Ziegler said the administration views rescue of 15 of the 54 plane hijack hostages as a "welcome step" but added it is deeply concerned over the remaining hostages.

The State Department, meantime, said the United States will provide relief to Jordan, mainly in the form of foodstuffs.

Hussein personally made the appeal for relief to U.S. Ambassador Dean Brown, who was carried in a Jordanian armed personnel carrier to the monarch's palace, press officer Robert J. McCloskey said at a news conference.

Egypt Says Jordan Violating Truce

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egypt accused Jordan today of violating the Jordanian cease-fire and planning to "liquidate" Palestinian guerrillas. Jordan's King Hussein said his forces had observed the truce "despite endless provocations" and called on the guerrillas "to slam the door shut forever on dissension and hostility."

He also announced over Radio Amman that a new government would be formed "within hours" to replace the military leadership he named last Wednesday, the day before the outbreak of the eight-day Jordanian civil war.

The military government resigned Friday.

The Jordanian army has been standing still around Ramtha and Irbid, 50 miles north of Amman, for the past three days, the king said. The situation in Amman was calm, he added, "except for scattered incidents where the armed forces were attacked."

He charged that a number of guerrilla groups were opposed to the cease-fire and were trying to sabotage it.

The charge that Jordan had broken the cease-fire agreement was made by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser in a cable sent to Hussein and broadcast over Amman radio. It was sent in the names of nine Arab nations whose leaders have been holding an emergency summit in Cairo.

News reports from Jordan Friday night said the fighting had ended. The round-the-clock curfew which had been in effect in Amman for more than a week was lifted for five hours daily, Radio Amman said.

Nasser charged that "a horrible massacre" was going on in Jordan "in violation of all Arab and human values." The cable, drafted at a meeting attended by Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat, said Jordanian assurances that Hussein's commanders would observe the cease-fire were "completely broken and devoid of any real validity."

The cable said a delegation of four Arab leaders headed by Sudanese President Jaafar el Numeiri reported after returning from their cease-fire mission in Jordan that there was "a determination on the part of Jordanian authorities to continue the fighting despite all attempts to halt the bloodshed."

The message appeared to place Nasser and the other Arab leaders squarely behind the Palestinians.

Earlier, Libya's strongman, Col. Muammar Kadafi, proposed an Arab police force to supervise the truce in Jordan. Libya then severed relations with Hussein's government. The Egyptian Middle East News Agency reported that Kadafi suggested the force be formed of forces from his own country and neighboring Algeria.

Gov. Reagan's Ranch Hit By Coast Inferno

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fires blazed through tinder-dry brush today in Southern California, leaving tens of thousands of acres charred and expensive homes in ashes.

Firemen faced more of the infamous, fire-fanning "devil winds," hot and dry seaward blasts from the desert which whipped the dozens of fires into fast-moving infernos after they started Friday.

More than 57,000 acres were blackened, an estimated 140 homes destroyed and as many as 400 homes damaged.

There were numerous reports of burns and other injuries to firemen and residents but no deaths.

Actor Dale Robertson's home was destroyed, fire officials said, and the blazes damaged Gov. Ronald Reagan's ranch and the Spahn movie ranch.

The two most destructive blazes cracked in Malibu Canyon, a fashionable scenic area on the coast about 30 miles northwest of Los Angeles, and in western San Fernando Valley, a largely residential area about 25 miles northwest.

The valley fire, racing seaward, was within two miles of reaching the now-cooled origin of the Malibu fire which burned to the Pacific Ocean's edge. A third fire, around Agua Dulce northeast of the valley, burned toward the starting point of the valley blaze.

It was the worst series of fires in California, officials said since Nov. 6, 1961 when 284 houses in the exclusive Bel Air and Brentwood sections of Los Angeles were destroyed.

The three fires Friday marked out a 40-mile-long crescent of devastation which ranged from half a mile to five miles wide.

The cause of the blazes was unknown, fire officials said.

Fire fighters battled through the night, aided by a drop in the temperature which reached near 100 degrees Friday afternoon and a lessening of the winds, which gusted to 82 miles an hour Friday.

Thousands of residents who fled the flames in the two areas and in scores of other fire-ravaged regions throughout Southern California spent the night in evacuation centers set up by the Red Cross and other groups.

Thousands of others whose homes were spared by the flames were without electricity and telephone service.

Given Overdose

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An 18-year-old girl says that two weeks before she testified in the Sharon Tate murder trial someone gave her a hamburger containing "an overdose of acid."

Barbara Hoyt, a former member of the hippie-type family of Charles M. Manson, said as she finished three days of testimony Friday that it happened in Honolulu and she spent a night in a hospital.

Agnew Says Main Mission To Fight 'Permissiveness'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says his campaign mission is to help elect men who will fight a national trend towards permissiveness and to mobilize a silent majority that has been "bulldozed" into thinking its values are out of style.

The vice president spelled out this double purpose Friday night in a speech to some 1,800 Republicans who paid $150 each — or $275 a couple — to attend a dinner in the Milwaukee area. Afterwards, he flew back to Washington.

Agnew declared, "During the past generation, a philosophy of permissiveness has infiltrated American life." And he said it has been a tragic mistake even though "sociological soreheads hate to admit it."

Coming at the end of a week that saw Agnew campaigning in Tennessee and Indiana, two states which are prime Republican campaign targets in their drive to capture Senate control, Agnew's appearance here was a bit surprising since even Republicans concede privately that Democratic Sen. William Proxmire is running well ahead of his GOP opponent, John Erickson.

Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, the Republican gubernatorial candidate to succeed retiring Gov. Warren Knowles, is in a much closer race against Democrat Patrick Luckey, a former lieutenant governor.

Without mentioning his name, he said Proxmire, "despite his flamboyant press clippings about slashing national defense, is a certified big spender." Proxmire has been a prime opponent of such projects as the supersonic transport and the CSA super transport, while chairing a subcommittee that has focused on costly defense contract overruns.

Security Net Is Tightened As Nixon Sets Foreign Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's European tour that begins Sunday has his security agents troubled. Besides guarding against the usual hazards, they are expanding protection to prevent an aerial hijacking of the chief executive's plane.

As a direct result of airliner hijackings by Palestinian guerrillas, all persons and baggage making the Nixon flight will have to pass rather rigorous scrutiny.

Even newsmen, most of them on a first-name basis with Nixon's Secret Service bodyguard, can expect their hand baggage to be searched if they are chosen to fly aboard Air Force One as a pool member responsible for reporting to colleagues flying separately aboard two press-chartered commercial airliners.

Moreover, such is the concern that even those aboard press planes hired from Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines must, under most circumstances, have their baggage at the White House ready for inspection by early this evening. Such precautions have been taken for perhaps a decade on a spot-check basis. This time, it would seem, the scrutiny will be more thorough.

Air Force One and the two chartered Boeing 707 press planes will be under armed guard whenever they are on the ground. It can be assumed that at least one man with a loaded weapon will be aboard all three as they move to Italy, Yugoslavia, Spain, Britain and Ireland.

What will prove most unusual to newsmen who have followed presidents for years will be the care taken to make certain that potentially lethal "foreign matter" is not placed in their suitcases in hotels where they will stay along the nine-day route.

The Secret Service is prepared, of course, for some hostile demonstrations, even riots, in such cities as Rome. That sort of thing happened both in Rome and Paris and, to a lesser extent, in London, during Nixon's 1969 European tour.

800 Policemen Seek New England Fugitive

HAVERHILL, Mass. (AP) — More than 800 policemen searched through the night in northeastern Massachusetts and New Hampshire for William M. Gilday, one of five persons charged in the machine gun slaying of a Boston policeman during a bank robbery.

The officers from 18 communities also manned roadblocks where Gilday, 41, of Amesbury, was spotted several times Friday. During the chase, police said, he stole three cars, took two persons hostage and was cornered once but eluded capture after exchanging shots with police.

Also sought were Katherine A. Power, 20, of Denver, Colo., registered as a senior at Brandeis University in Waltham; Susan Saxe, 20, of Albany, N.Y., a June graduate of Brandeis; and Stanley R. Bond, 25, of Cambridge. Police said they believed the trio flew to Los Angeles Thursday.

Robert Valeri, 21, of Somerville, was arrested a few hours after the $26,000 robbery Wednesday of a branch office of State Street Bank and Trust Co. Patrolman Walter K. Schroeder, 41, was killed during the robbery.

Gilday, Bond and Valeri all served terms at Walpole State Prison and had been associated with Brandeis through a convict rehabilitation program called STEP.

A Brandeis official said Miss Power and Bond had registered there this fall but "have not been on the Brandeis campus recently and apparently have severed all relationships with the campus."

Gilday was a night student at Northeastern University and Valeri had been accepted at Northeastern.

Police said ammunition and military supplies found in Miss Power's Boston apartment had been stolen in the bombing and looting of a National Guard armory at Newburyport last Sunday.

Boston Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara said the equipment shown a "positive link" between the robbery-slays and "radical, revolutionary campus groups."

Bond, Miss Saxe and Miss Power worked together last spring at the student strike information center set up at Brandeis during protests against the dispatch of U. S. troops into Cambodia.

All five were charged with murder and armed robbery on state warrants Thursday, and federal warrants Friday charged the four fugitives with fleeing to escape prosecution.

Police gave this report on the chase of Gilday Friday:

Mrs. Ruth Palmer, 79, of Hampton, N.H., said Gilday jumped into her car and forced her to drive him to Salem, N.H., where he let her out and drove away. She identified Gilday from police photographs.

The car was in a collision in Massachusetts near Tewksbury and was abandoned. Police pursued the driver into the woods, where they exchanged shots. One bullet grazed the forehead of Edwa D. Morris, a Lowell policeman.

Gilday escaped to Wilmington, where he commandeered an auto at an auto agency and forced Vincent Coyne, the sales manager, to drive him to New Hampshire.

Coyne leaped out of the car as he slowed for a sharp curve and Gilday took the wheel. Police then pursued the car at speeds up to 100 miles an hour to Atkinson, N.H., where the car was wrecked and another was reported stolen.

Gilday apparently spotted several roadblocks during the day and turned away from them, speeding away and eluding police cruisers on several occasions.

Treating Cattle For Grubs Pays Off

In the modern feedlot the question is not whether to treat for cattle grubs, but how, when and with which grubicides.

It's important to know the origin of the cattle before a systemic grub treatment is applied. You need to know where the cattle were pastured in order to figure out when they may have been exposed to the heel fly (adult of the grub), William F. Lyon, Extension Service entomologist at Ohio State University, points out.

A systemic insecticide should be applied after the heel fly egg-laying season is over and at least 6 weeks before grubs reach the animal's back. For native Ohio cattle, the approximate time would be between mid-August and Nov. 1. However, heel fly egg laying periods may vary each year. Texas and southwest cattle should be treated between April 1 and July 30; Oklahoma and Kansas cattle between May 1 and Aug. 30; Iowa, Nebraska and Colorado cattle between June 1 and Oct. 30; Wyoming, Montana, and Dakota cattle between July 1 and Nov. 15; and Canadian cattle between Sept. 1 and Nov. 30. Treating after these treatment-deadlines may be asking for trouble, Lyon cautions.

As the systemic insecticide kills grubs, they are absorbed by the animal. If grubs are large, the introduction of great amounts of this foreign protein into the animal's system can cause salivation, stiffness in hind-quarters, bloating, diarrhea, paralysis and occasional death. However, symptoms are usually obvious 16 hours after treatment, at their worst about 24 hours after treatment and in another 24 hours generally back to normal health. Calves almost always recover. Once in a while a veterinarian is needed.

Systemic insecticides give nearly 100 per cent grub control. Many are applied by pouring a small portion of the chemical down the middle of the back. Absorption occurs through the skin and into the blood stream, resulting in grub kill on location.

Treatment costs many range from 30 to 75 cents per head depending upon the particular type systemic insecticide applied. It is well-worth the expense since horn-flies, ticks and lice infestations may be reduced at the same time. Most important, grub damage to the carcass and hides is eliminated. This prevents price discounts of $8 to $25 per head for grubby cattle.

Cattle may be grub-treated by using a dipping vat, by spraying, by backline pour-on or by feed additives. All are effective when used according to label directions. If spraying, use a high pressure sprayer which develops 250-500 pounds per square inch.

Recommended systemic insecticides are: compaphos (Co-Ral), famphur (Warbex), ronnel (Korlan), Ruelene and trichlorfon (Neguvon).

Pigs And Hogs On Increase In Corn Belt

USDA Statistical Service)

All hogs and pigs on Ohio farms Sept. 1, totaled 2.9 million head, up 7 per cent from a year earlier and the largest Sept. 1 inventory since 1962. Market hogs accounted for 2,555,000 head and breeding hogs 382,000 head, with both groups up seven per cent from a year earlier.

Sows farrowed during the June-August quarter totaled 150,000, up 8 per cent from the same quarter in 1969. Pigs per litter last quarter averaged 7.70, the highest rate in recent years. The resulting pig crop of 1,155,000 pigs June-August was up 11 per cent from a year earlier. Ohio farmers plan to farrow 135,000 sows September-November and 120,000 sows for the December 1970-February 1971 quarter. These are up 8 and 2 per cent respectively from a year earlier.

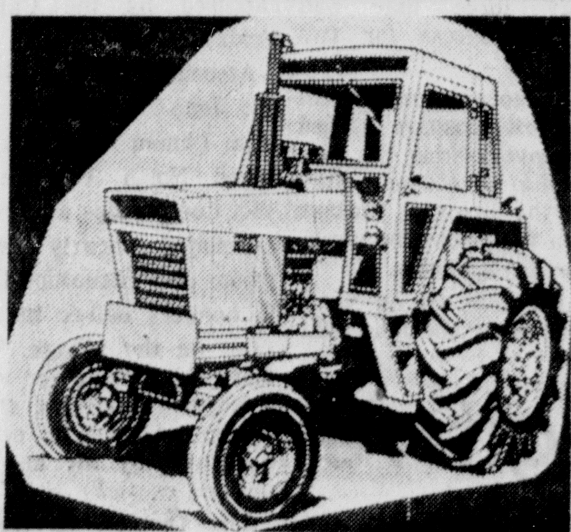

Hogs and pigs on farms on Sept. 1 in the 10 Corn Belt states are estimated at 50.6 million head — 13 per cent more than a year earlier. The June-August 1970 pig crop is estimated at 18.1 million head, 14 per cent above the same period in 1969. A total of 2.5 million sows farrowed during that period, 17 per cent more than a year earlier. Hog producers in the 10 states intend to farrow 13 per cent more sows during September-November and 6 per cent more during December 1970-February 1971 compared with same periods a year earlier.

The title "Pope" came into use in the fourth century; until that time, the usual title was bishop of Rome.

Salaries Keep Going Up

While the nation's economy cooled and interest rates went up, starting salaries for Purdue University's School of Agriculture graduates showed an average gain of $300 a year, according to information provided by the June graduates.

Prof. D. C. Pfendler, associate dean of the school of agriculture, reported that salaries averaged $8,100, compared to $7,800 in 1969. The salaries ranged from $6,000 to $1,000 annually, not including those who entered military service or continued in graduate school.

Corn Outlook Still Shrinks

No Feed Grain Shortage Foreseen

By L. B. SIMERL

(University of Illinois Department of Agricultural Economics)
The most-anxiously awaited crop report in many years has been released by the USDA. Farmers, as well as grain dealers and users around the world, were eager to learn the extent of the damage from the corn leaf blight.

In this report the USDA forecast, 1970 corn production at 4,403 million bushels. This figure is 6 per cent lower than the forecast made the first of August, and 4 per cent less than the 1969 crop.

The Sept. 11 forecast for the national average yield per acre was 75.9 bushels — 5 bushels less than forecast a month earlier, and 8 bushels below the record yield posted last year. A normal yield for this year would have averaged about 85 bushels an acre.

THE FORECAST made by the USDA on Sept. 11 was close to the expectations of many persons in the grain trade, although some think future estimates will be lower. The official report was based on conditions existing as of Sept. 1, and thus did not show the effects of later crop deterioration.

A weekly report issued by the Illinois Cooperative Crop Reporting Service on September 8 stated: "Corn conditions declined during the past week, but at a slower rate of decline than during the previous two weeks." The best corn was reported within a twelve-county area in the northwest corner of the state, and in a similar number of east-central Illinois counties. The poorest corn was reported in the southern fifth of the state.

THE FORECAST was much higher than many farmers expected. A part of the difference is understandable, since the corn in Ohio, Illinois and Indiana seems to have been hit much harder by the blight than that in other Corn Belt states.

How much more damage to the corn crop will be recorded because of the blight? The answer will not be known until most of the crop has been harvested; perhaps not even then, because corn was afflicted by a wide variety of ailments this year — too much and too little water and numerous kinds of insects and diseases.

When plant pathologists found the southern corn leaf blight early in August, they said the amount of damage would depend on the weather conditions during "the next three or four weeks." Those weeks brought weather that favored the blight. Weather conditions usually change markedly from August to September, the corn that has escaped death from blight is nearing maturity, and may not suffer much additional damage.

IT NOW APPEARS that the total supply of feed grains (corn, oats, barley, sorghum grain, and some wheat) will be sufficient to maintain the present levels of livestock feeding, industrial uses and exports. Market prices, however, will continue to fluctuate widely, as the yield reports come in.

The outlook for the 1971 crop is very uncertain. If the weather is right, corn disease specialists believe there will be very little loss in the Corn Belt from the blight. On thing is sure — the seed-corn companies will discard the varieties most susceptible to the blight.

HUTCHINS — CASE WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Deborah Lee Hutchins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. L. Hutchins of Rt. 2, New Vienna and Lance Corporal Warren Nelson Case, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Case took place Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the New Vienna United Methodist Church. The Rev. Henry M. Lynd performed the double-ring ceremony.

Pre-nuptial music was presented by organist, Miss Vicki Hughes. Mrs. James Terrell sang The Lord's Prayer, by Malotte, during the ceremony. Two goblets of gladioli and pampou chrysanthemums flanked the altar with seven-branched candelabrum. Pillows of jade foliage formed the background. Ribbon bows marked the bridal path.

The bride, escorted down the aisle by her father and given in marriage by her mother and father, chose a formal gown of brocade and Venice lace. The silhouette gown featured an empire waist and the built-in train swept to chapel length. Her elbow-length veil of bridal illusion was caught to a headpiece of satin pearls embroidered with tiny pearls and crystals.

She carried her great-grandmother's 125-year-old chapel Bible with a corsage of stephanotis and white carnations on top and showers of stephanotis.

Mrs. Michael Borton, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Danny Mongold, of Wilmington, Miss Cheryl Michael, of Muncie, Ind., Michelle Hutchins, sister of the bride, flower girl and Brady Wells, of Angola, Ind., ring bearer.

All attendants wore floor length dresses, similarly styled with empire waists, long sleeves and wedding band collars. The matron of honor's dress was of blue faille, the others of avocado. Their headpieces were matching Dior bows and tulle. Bouquets were cascades of purple asters and Michelle carried a basket of rose petals.

Capt. Robert Edward Case served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Joe Bernard, Robert Woodruff, of Wilmington, Douglas and Eric Hutchins.

The bride's mother wore a beige and autumn brown crepe frock; Mrs. Case had a cranberry knit and both had mint green carnations corsages. Miss Pamela Thompson, of New Vienna, and Miss Donna Williams, of Springfield, assisted at the reception at the Hutchins' home. The receiving line on the patio was lighted in varied colors.

A four-tiered wedding cake was topped with miniature wedding bells and surrounded by a lace and floral trim. An arrangement of gladioli flanked by candelabra and other floral arrangements throughout the home were in autumn colors.

For the wedding trip to Cherry Point, where the couple will reside, Mrs. Case wore a cream beige long sleeved crepe dress with matching sleeveless coat of linen and brown accessories. Corporal Case is stationed at the Marine Corps Air Station at Cherry Point.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Case were graduated from East Clinton High School. She has been employed at Borton-McDermott Company. He has completed Aviation Electronics School with the U. S. Marine Corps at Memphis Tenn., and at Jacksonville Fla.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Case, Friday evening at Snow Hill Country Club. A blue and green color scheme was carried out in the decorations.

Friday, at noon, bridesmaids' luncheon was given by Mrs. William H. Robinson at her home near Snow Hill. A floral arrangement of royal purple chrysanthemums formed a centerpiece for the table. The bride's colors of green and blue were carried out in the appointments.

Guests were Mrs. Robert C. L. Hutchins, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Robert W. Case, mother of the prospective bridegroom, the attendants, Mrs. Borton, Mrs. Mongold, Miss Michael, Michelle Hutchins and Mrs. Rodney Wells, of Angola, Ind.

Among the bridal parties given Miss Hutchins prior to the wedding was a linen shower given by Mrs. Eugene Williams and Mrs. William Robinson at the Robinson residence, near Snow Hill.

The green and blue color scheme was used in decorating a long gift table at one end of the living room and a dessert course was served to some twenty five guests.

Thyroid Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — A million or more Americans now receive treatment for thyroid deficiency, or hypothyroidism. Some have serious medical conditions such as cretinism or goiter, but most are listless, experiencing weight gains, have scaliness of the skin, a decreased heart output, or reduced sexual drive. Undetected hypothyroidism has also been linked to heart attacks and blood clots in women taking birth control pills.

Roasted Corn And Soybeans For Hogs

A ration of roasted corn and roasted soybeans gave a 12 per cent increase in feed efficiency in growing-finishing swine in a recent Purdue University study.

Dr. James R. Foster, Purdue Extension Service animal scientist, reporting on the study at the Lynnwood Purdue Agricultural Center, said the roasted corn and soybean ration did not improve the rate of gain compared with hogs on a regular corn and soybean meal ration.

The study, directed by Dr. T. W. Perry, Purdue animal nutritionist, involved 96 barrows and gilts.

Foster described full fat (whole) soybeans, when properly heat treated, as "an excellent source of high quality protein for swine." Generally, a five to 10 per cent improvement in feed efficiency can be expected, he added.

Hogs fed full fat soybeans will have somewhat softer carcasses, Foster continued, as a result of a greater degree of unsaturated fat, but this does not appear objectionable to packers.

BRUCE MCKENZIE, Purdue Extension Service agricultural engineer, said total cost of the soybean processing equipment was $4,064 with an annual fixed ownership cost of $710.

Total cost per ton of soybeans processed ranged from $24.55 for a herd of 30 sows on the two-litter system or 600 feeder pigs to $4.45 for a herd of 200 sows on the two-litter system or 4,000 feeder pigs.

Discussing feasibility of on-farm cooking of soybeans, David

H. Bache, Purdue agricultural economist, listed these factors to be considered by swine producers when deciding whether to process them on their farm:

Number of hogs fed; Distance from Soybean source from a Soybean meal source;

Relative price of soybeans and soybean meal; and Soybean production on their farm.

PURDUE ANIMAL scientist Hobart W. Jones, reported on a Purdue weaning age study at three weeks averaged 11.7 pounds while those weaned at six weeks average 22.6 pounds.

At eight weeks of age pigs weaned three weeks averaged 37.7 pounds and those weaned at six weeks averaged 34.6 pounds.

Sows whose litters were weaned at three weeks averaged a lactation weight loss of slightly more than nine pounds, while those whose litters were weaned at six weeks lost an average of 19.5 pounds. Sows whose litters were weaned at three weeks consumed an average of 229 pounds of feed from the time the litters were farrowed until weaned, and sows whose litters were weaned at six weeks consumed an average of 553 pounds during the period the pigs nursed.

Discussing recent swine nutrition research, Purdue animal scientist T. B. Cline said that pelleting of complete feeds for growing - finishing swine increases feed efficiency, but generally does not offset the cost of pelleting.

Relatively high levels of copper (125-250 ppm) usually increase rate of gain and should not cause toxicity if thoroughly mixed with balanced diets well fortified with zinc and iron, Cline said.

Coy-soybean meal diets for confinement-house swine should be supplemented with vitamins E and K to prevent possible death loss, Cline noted.

USDA Order Assailed By Stackhouse

John M. Stackhouse, director of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, has voiced strong opposition to the federal government cancellation of mercury seed treatment compounds which, he said, could result in serious economic losses to Ohio farmers and processors in the production of small grain crops.

The United States Department of Agriculture recently suspended registration of virtually all organic mercury compounds for use in treating agricultural seeds following an incident which caused injury to humans due to illegal use of treated seed for livestock feed, Stackhouse pointed out.

"Organic mercury compounds have been used for the control of seed borne diseases in Ohio and in the United States for over 20 years," Stackhouse said. "These compounds are used on small grains - wheat, oats, and barley - particularly for the control of 'stinking smut' (bunt) of wheat, Ohio law specifies that seeds so treated must carry a red color to indicate that they have been treated and are not to be used for human or animal consumption."

"Plant pathologists indicate that there are no effective substitutes for mercury seed treatment for the control of 'stinking smut' in wheat at the present time. They estimate that within five years, without an effective seed treatment, the Ohio wheat crop will be unfit for sale for flour milling because of the amount of 'stinking smut' found in the grain. "Properly used at the rate of one-half ounce per bushel of seed would mean one ounce of diluted treatment material allied per acre based on the normal seeding rate of two bushels per acre," Stackhouse continued "converted into the amount of actual mercury applied to the soil would mean .015 ounce per acre on less than 6 per cent of Ohio's total land area."

"Current research indicates that mercury used in this manner is absorbed into the organic portion of the soil and is not subject to leaching. Small amounts could move through soil erosion or siltation. In any event, the amount of mercury attributable to this source in the streams and lakes of Ohio would be so minute that it is questionable whether even our most sensitive laboratory equipment could detect its presence, Stackhouse said.

Rate Of Seeding Holds Yields Up

In recent years Ohio's crop production index has been moving upwards even though we have had periods of unfavorable growing conditions. But improved methods of cultivation, higher level of fertilization, improved varieties, more effective weed and pest control, and higher rate of seeding have more than offset the unfavorable growing conditions.

Results of this survey, as reported by 800 Ohio crop reporters in 1970, indicate increased seeding rates over rates from similar surveys summarized in 1955, 1960 and 1965.

For these surveys, respondents reported "the usual rate of seeding on a per acre basis" in their own locality for the survey. The reported seeding rates refer to crops planted separately and not as mixtures.

Bulwark Against Violence

It is often said that Americans are a people prone to violence. This is not a canard unrelated to facts; there is much evidence in support of the thesis that the tendency toward violence has played a significant role in the development of our society.

Even when all due weight is given to such evidence, however, it can still be said that the overwhelming majority of Americans reject violence and terror as political tactics.

The almost universal reaction to the wave of bombings — of police stations, university buildings, courthouses, and so on — has been one of profound revulsion. Most of us also feel that way about attacks on policemen, and violent disruption of court proceedings.

Such deeds, even when done in the name of lofty motives, run counter to our deepest instincts of social order.

President Nixon's address on the subject was essentially an appeal to those instincts. It is an appeal that all men of good will should not only heed, but reiterate in every possible forum. For though it appears true that violence as a political tactic is anathema to most of our countrymen, there clearly are some who either engage in or condone such violence. The times demand an effort to build the greatest possible consensus as a bulwark against the spreading of this poison.

This is what Mr. Nixon has set about doing. Much of what he said on the subject was perceptive and useful, not mere exhortation. In particular we applaud the insight in this observation by the President:

"What corrodes a society even more deeply than violence itself is the acceptance of violence, the condoning of terror, the excusing of inhuman acts in a misguided effort to accommodate the community's standards to those of the violent few."

Such acceptance is, in the exact sense of the word, intolerable.

'News Ombudsman' For Students?

THESE DAYS....

By John Chamberlain

Do we need a multiplication of jobs in the White House devoted to getting news of the administration out to the public? Herbert Klein, Nixon's director of communications, is supposed to clear the channels, and he has always been cooperative with the press.

However, a young graduate student at the University of Southern California, Lowell Ponte, thinks Klein is too busy dealing with the "large establishment media" to take care of the "small press," particularly that part of the small press represented by college newspapers.

As a "summer interne" in Washington, Mr. Ponte has been pressing a demand for a White House news ombudsman or ombudsmen, an "office of access" that would take all sorts of questions from interested parties and insist that the White House staff yield honest answers.

The risk in this sort of proposal is that an ombudsman would lack the muscle to get at information that might prove damaging to the Republican administration. And any ombudsman would have to be something of a genius to keep clear of the crossfire that would predictably result if the "lefts" and the "rights" on the White House staff began to compete for his ear.

EVEN SO, there is a germ of common sense in Mr. Ponte's proposal. The "big press" doesn't need an "office of access" to obtain White House news; it has experienced reporters and columnists who know how to cultivate sources without hurting informants by disclosing identity.

However, Mr. Ponte is thinking in terms of his own collegiate background. What he really wants is someone in the White House who would be available to dig things out for campus news editors, or to refer an inquiring undergraduate or "small press" reporter to the party in possession of the required information.

Mr. Ponte's idea takes cogency from his own critique of college journalism. The campus journalist, he says, begins by assuming that government is "inaccessible." It is the "Establishment," and as such is not going to tell anything that might reflect on its own capacity to govern. Defeated at the start by his assumptions, the college journalist does not attempt any fresh reporting of distant matters.

He takes the "news" from "big media" (the journals, the magazines and the TV-radio networks that are always getting it in the neck from Vice President Agnew), and proceeds to "analyze" the reporting done by others.

ANALYSIS is, of course, an important function of the press. Every columnist knows, however, that if he fails to make the indicated telephone call he may miss something that puts a different light on even the most accurate spot news. The "interpreter" who is only an analyst, not a reporter, is not likely to come up with anything that the skilled newspaper reader or TV-watcher cannot figure out for himself.

Says Mr. Ponte of the average college journalist, "Being an interpreter rather than a reporter — the result of being too distant from the news itself — makes it easy to think in easy stereotypes. If the government wants to change this situation, it must try talking directly with — not at — the small press representing the American taxpayer and the campus press representing millions of students, a majority of whom feel in doubt about American values, goals and society in general."

THINKING BACK to last spring, it is obvious that Mr. Ponte has a point. How many college editors tried to discover the reasons for the Cambodian operation? There was much in the college press about campus "activism" in opposing what was glibly called an "extension" of the Vietnamese War.

A White House "office of access" might have referred an inquiring undergraduate editor to someone who could have told about the internal administration debates leading to the Cambodian decision, which was undertaken not with a view to "extending" the war but to narrowing it by the destruction of enemy material that could have kept the conflict going on and on in time.

LAFF - A - DAY

"Those in favor say 'Aye'. Those opposed say 'Farewell'."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

A Spoiled Child Makes A Poor Adult

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old happily married woman. My problem is my brother who is 19. Rick was the "favorite" and always knew how to get what he wanted. Mother waited on him hand and foot, and dad gave him money for just breathing. He was spoiled rotten. For his 16th birthday the folks gave him an expensive car, although his grades were barely passing. Rick didn't qualify for one of the better schools, so dad pulled some strings and got him into a junior college. He flunked out and came home. Now my parents have decided to wash their hands of him. My father says a psychiatrist friend of his advised him to throw Rick out and let him sink or swim.

Rick has taken up with some "way out" characters. I'm sure they're going the drug route. Rick has a lot of good in him. I can't see him ruin his life. I want to offer Rick a home with my husband and me. My folks say that if I take Rick in they will never speak to me again—that bailing him out now will only convince him that someone will always come to his rescue. I need your help.

RICK'S SIS
DEAR SIS: A spoiled child makes an emotionally crippled adult. Your parents, though well-intentioned, "crippled" Rick, and now they're blaming him because he can't walk straight. I don't know what kind of a psychiatrist would advise a sink or swim solution for a young man who has never been taught to swim.

Take Rick on the condition that he gets a job, tries to straighten himself out and becomes a contributing member of society. And if your folks never speak to you again, it will be their loss.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to offer some advice to "PESTERED IN SUMMER," whose gabby neighbor leans over the fence and talks a blue streak: Instead of a higher fence, plant a New Dawn rambler rose. It grows fast, has vicious thorns, and beautiful pale pink roses all summer long. Cuttings start readily when planted under glass jars. You could soon have the whole fence covered. Your neighbor won't lean long on those thorns, and the foliage will soon obstruct the view.

MRS. L.W.R., CLARINGTON, OHIO
DEAR MRS. R.: Now that's what I call "saying it with flowers."

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl with a problem. I have a whole collection of dolls. Some are old and some are new, but they are all in excellent condition. I have doll houses and clothes-lots of them.

My father says I am too old for dolls and he wants me to give them away. I realize I am too old to play with dolls, Abby, but I still like to comb their hair and look at them once in a while. I was thinking I might even want to keep them for my children when I get married. Is that so dumb? I am really very much attached to these dolls. I can't help it. I've had some of them for years.

My father says my dolls and doll houses take up valuable room, but you should see all the junk he has just sitting around. How can I explain to my parents that I want to keep my dolls?
CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
DEAR CONFIDENTIALLY: I don't know how many dolls you have, but perhaps there are some you could give away to little girls who have no dolls at all. Why not keep those dolls you are especially "attached to," and give away the rest? And don't be ashamed of "playing" with dolls at your age. Doll collectors come in all ages.

Three counts of issuing fraudulent checks filed against Leslie Hudson Jr., 34, of New Holland, were dismissed by Judge Winegardner at the request of two prosecuting witnesses, Laverne Haugen of Risch's Drug Store, and Jean Taylor, secretary to Dr. R. U. Anderson.

It was discovered that Hudson had not issued the checks. Restitution has been made, the court was informed by the witnesses.

Benefit Dinner Planned For Village Church

NEW MARTINSBURG — A barbecued chicken dinner will be served Sunday evening, Oct. 3, to raise money to paint the outside of the United Methodist Church here.

Serving will start at 4:30 p.m. in the Forest Shade Grange Hall. Also on the menu will be green beans, baked beans, slaw, homemade pie and cake.

The men of the church will barbecue the chicken; the women will handle about everything else.

These dinners are held every year, both as social affairs and as money-making events. The attendance has averaged around 350 to 400 in the past and that many and more are expected this year.

Proceeds from the dinner two years ago went for painting the inside of the church. Men of the church are being counted on to do at least some of the painting this year. Some are a bit leary of painting the steeple.

Jack Braden is the general chairman. The pastor is the Rev. Earl Russell, who also occupies the pulpits of the Maple Grove, Sugar Grove and Good Hope churches of the charge.

The largest church in the world is the basilica of St. Peter in the Vatican City, Rome. The length of the church, measured from the apse, is 611 feet, 4 inches. The area is 18,110 square yards.

Guide To Good Health

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

ADVANCED cirrhosis of the liver is one of the penalties paid by chronic alcoholics. There are other causes for cirrhosis that are just as dangerous because of the impairment to the function of this vital organ. Unfortunately, liver damage is rarely ever reversible even though the progression of cirrhosis can sometimes be stopped by removing the cause.

Dr. R. Benichoux, of Nancy, France, has developed an ingenious technique aimed at rejuvenation and regeneration of livers with cirrhosis. This is different from the total liver transplant which is being tried with only moderate success.

Dr. Benichoux is actually implanting a portion of the spleen into the liver in order to increase the blood flow to this organ. He has done this procedure in 13 patients with advanced cirrhosis and his results are being studied with great enthusiasm by surgeons all over the world. One of the great advantages of this method is that the patient's own spleen is used, and therefore there is no problem of transplant rejection that so often makes other surgery fail.

Too little attention has been paid to a scientific report that deserves to be skywritten all over his nation. In 1969, there was not one single death from polio in children who were vaccinated against the disease.

The National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., issued this statement that carries a vast impact of hope.

The amazing impact of this comes only when it is recalled that in 1952 there were 14,000 deaths, and more than 20,000 cases of paralysis due to this disease. If we are to maintain such startling exciting statistics, vaccination against polio must be given to every child in America. No far-removed rural community must be neglected if we are to spare single human being the calamity of unnecessary paralysis.

As early as the tenth week of pregnancy, it is now possible to study the heart of the fetus. Dr. Paulina de Smoler, of Mexico City, has been able to obtain reliable electrocardiogram studies of the fetal heart very early in pregnancy.

One may wonder what information is obtained by this technique. Under certain circumstances throughout pregnancy, the rate and rhythm of the fetal heart becomes terribly important as a sign of health of the growing child.

Evidence of fetal distress and toxicity of pregnancy can now be recognized more readily and give the doctor greater insight into the needs of the unborn child.

The method that Dr. de Smoler uses is relatively simple because the electrodes or wires are painlessly attached to the abdominal wall of the mother. This may indeed be an important contribution to the safety of the child, and the prevention of some birth disorders.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: Even in dry weather, a cane with a rubber tip can spare the elderly from accidents.

Annual Bazaar Set For Nov. 14

The annual bazaar held by the Friendship Circle Class of the Bloomingburg United Methodist Church was announced for Nov. 14 at the church when members met this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Rapp. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Denen were co-hosts.

A lunch will be served the day of the bazaar, beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Charles Hughes, president, conducted the meeting, followed by a hymn and reports. Cards were signed for the ill and shutins. Several poems were read by various members and the Rev. Emery Moyer gave a short talk.

Refreshments were served to 18 members and one guest, little Ruth Moyer.

Virginia Circle Elects Officers

Mrs. Russell Garringer and Mrs. Ray Young combined hospitalities when the Virginia Circle, of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church met, in the church parlor.

Mrs. Garringer conducted the meeting when the following officers were named for two-year terms: assistant leader, Mrs. Young; secretary, Mrs. Charles Hill; treasurer, Mrs. Young; assistant, Mrs. Charles Seibert; press reporter, Miss Helen Fultz; and sunshine chairman, Mrs. Marguerite Heironimus.

Following a discussion of various money-making projects, the group decided to sell stationery.

For the program, Mrs. Garringer presented a most interesting pledge service. Members assumed the characters in a short skit, then participated in a discussion of the purpose of the society, which is to unite in Christian fellowship and share in Christian witness and service in the missionary outreach at home, and overseas.

During the social hour the hostesses served a salad course. Mrs. Garringer will be hostess for the Oct. 28 meeting.

Rep. Taft Attacks 'Cult Of Terror'

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Rep. Robert A. Taft Jr., campaigning in northwest Ohio Friday, pointed to the recent slaying of a Toledo policeman and the bombing at the University of Wisconsin as examples of "a growing cult of terror in America today."

The GOP senatorial candidate asked Americans to "stand up behind our law enforcement officers and tell the limousine liberals of the left that we won't tolerate any more violence."

The conquest of the South Pole was first achieved on Dec. 14, 1911, by the Norwegian Roald Amundsen in a 53-day southward march with dog sleds from the Bay of Whales.

Peanut-Butter Penuche Pleases

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

When the kids around your house beg you to make candy and you would like to try a new recipe that will beguile them, consider running up a batch of Peanutbutter Penuche.

This fudge is bound to please because it's a combination of two favorite flavors — peanut butter and brown sugar.

A friend who is an old hand at candymaking developed this recipe. We think you'll like her directions about turning the candy mixture into a pan; this is a crucial point — if you want good-looking fudge that has a smooth top — but unfortunately most recipes for penuche omit it.

PEANUT-BUTTER PENUCHE
2 cups firmly packed light brown sugar

2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup creamy peanut butter
2 teaspoon vanilla.

Butter the bottom and sides of a square cake pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches).

In a heavy straight-sided 4-quart saucepan, stir together the sugars, milk, corn syrup and salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sugars dissolve and mixture boils.

Continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until temperature reaches 236 degrees on a candy thermometer, or until a small amount of mixture, dropped into ice-cold water, forms a soft ball that flattens on removal from water. Remove from heat.

Add peanut butter, but do not stir it in. Cool mixture until thermometer drops to 115 degrees (This may take as long as an hour). Add vanilla.

Beat mixture until it thickens and turns lighter in color — 2 to 3 minutes. While it can still flow from saucepan and before it loses its gloss, pour it into the prepared pan. (It is better to turn it into the pan too soon than too late. If too soon, continue stirring the mixture in the pan. If too late, it won't flow from saucepan.)

Cool penuche. With a small metal spatula loosen edges; turn out onto a cutting board; turn right side up. Cut into squares. Makes 64 (1-inch) squares — 2 pounds.

Cloud Talks On Disorders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Roger Cloud said Friday if all other law enforcement efforts failed he would order Ohio National Guardsmen to rioting college campuses—with lie ammunition.

Cloud said, however, the guardsmen would be permitted to load their weapons only on the specific orders of their commanders.

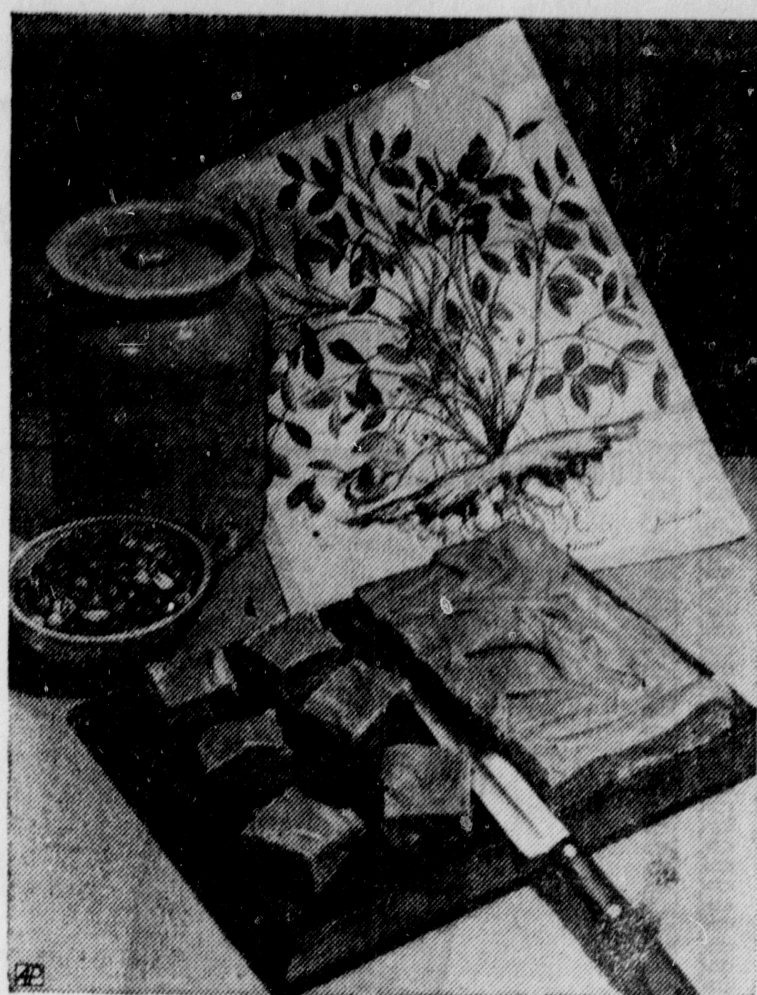

"Guardsmen facing uncontrollable, destructive mobs must have the means to defend themselves and protect innocent citizens," Cloud said.

Cloud said "Ohio's colleges must remain institutions for education and not dens of confrontation."

Cloud described that function as one of reasoned study and inquiry.

Students, Cloud said, "have every right" to question society, "but using violence to do it is intolerable."

The German Third Reich government's forging operation, code name "Bernhard," engineered in 1940-41, involved $420 billion worth of Bank of England notes and is considered the greatest forgery in the world.

PEANUT-BUTTER PENUCHE — This delicious fudge wins applause from both youngsters and oldsters.

Blue Lions Saddled With 20-12 Defeat

By BILL SMITH
Record-Herald Sports Writer

The Washington C. H. Blue Lions were caught from behind to be beaten by Franklin Heights, 20-12, in an exciting offensive battle Friday night in suburban Columbus.

Coach Maurice Pfeifer's charges got the breaks when they needed them, but still couldn't put the points on the board, going the entire second half without starting quarterback Steve Ross.

The junior signal-caller pulled a muscle late in the second quarter and may be lost from the lineup for a week. If not, he'll certainly be hampered in practice for the Lions' SCOL opener at Hillsboro next week.

Washington won the toss and elected to receive as Doug Looker and Jeff Pollock were deep. Looker fielded the kick and handed off to Pollock, who reversed his field and dazzled the fans with an 80 yard kick-off return for the first score of the game. Pollock went up the side-line behind some excellent blocking. The extra points attempt failed.

Unsportsman-like conduct was called on the Franklin Heights coaching staff, so Donald Johns kicked off from the Falcons 40-yard line. In the ensuing drive, Franklin Heights picked up two first downs and 30 yards in penalties. A clipping penalty killed the drive on the Washington 39-yard line.

Both teams' defenses sharpened up enough to stop all further scoring in the first quarter, and half of the total penalty yardage charged against both teams was assessed in that initial stanza.

Franklin Heights picked up four first downs and seven points in the next drive behind the strong running of Tom Toney. Bruce Carmichael took the paydirt in from two yards out and Mike Canfield kicked the extra point. The Falcons were out in front, 7-6.

Washington's next drive stalled and the Lions were forced to punt. The Falcons took over on their own 18-yard line. On first and 10, Bruce Carmichael broke away for a 76-yard jaunt before being brought down from behind by speedster Jeff Pollock on the Court House six. Carmichael, supposedly the faster of the pair, seemed reluctant to get up after being hauled down by Pollock.

He came back two plays later to score from four yards out. Canfield split the uprights for the extra point to make it 14-6. And that was the score at the half.

CARMICHAEL dominated the ground game for the Falcons as he had a total of 125 yards in the game.

Steve Ross went the entire first half for Washington C. H., but failed to see any action in the second. Ross suffered a pulled muscle in his last series of downs and will probably miss some practice next week.

The Lions started a drive which picked up two first downs early in the third quarter before they were forced to punt.

After the Falcons took over, their first aerial was devoured by linebacker Bob Self. An alert Lion lineman tipped the Gary Rundels pass into Self's waiting arms. With a driving effort, Self ran to within a yard of the goal line, only to be stopped. Pollock took it from the one to bring the score to 14-12, with the Lions trailing. A pass for the extra's failed.

The Falcons scored next after blocking a David DeWeese punt. They had taken over on the Lion 15, and two plays later Toney scored. Exhibiting a good rush, the Lions forced Canfield into a quick kick and he missed the extra points.

JEFF POLLOCK again took the Canfield kickoff from Bill Junk and reversed field. Almost breaking away, he was knocked out of bounds on the Washington 41. The Lions moved the ball down to the Falcon's 37-yard line and another personal foul moved it to the Falcon 18.

Holding was called against the Pfeifer-men on the next play and the ball was moved back to the 28 and then to the 36 on a loss and a penalty.

David DeWeese was forced to punt, at least that what it looked like. DeWeese ran around right end, but failed to pick up the necessary yardage.

Franklin Heights was forced to punt after failing to move the ball. The Lions attempted three passes, two of which were completed, but again Washington C. H. failed to pick up the necessary yardage for a first down.

Lady Luck dealt the Lions another chance as clipping was charged against the Falcons on DeWeese's punt. On second and 10, Bill Junk dropped back to pass and saw nothing but gold jerseys as he was smothered.

The ball popped loose and the Golden Falcons recovered. Time ran out before another play could be started.

Steve Ross and Bill Junk both completed four aeriels for 31 yards apiece. Gary Rundels completed only two passes for five yards as the Falcons stuck mainly to the ground behind tailback Bruce Carmichael and fullback Tom Toney.

Pirates Top Mets, 4-3; Widen Lead

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Leo Durocher and Gil Hodges are whistling in the dark but Danny Murtaugh is just whistling today after the Pittsburgh Pirates took a long stride towards nailing down the National League's East Division flag.

The Pirates nipped New York 4-3 Friday night to open a 3½ game bulge over both the Mets and Chicago Cubs, who lost to Philadelphia 5-3. Pittsburgh's magic number, with five games to play, is three. The Cubs and Mets have six remaining including four against each other.

Manager Murtaugh, elated by his club's suddenly healthy position as the race moves into its final days, claims he isn't looking at the magic number. "I only believe," said Murtaugh, "in having them four out with three to go."

Durocher, manager of the Cubs, was gloomy but still hopeful. "It's never over until it's over," said Durocher, "it was so on the board," said Leo. "It was worse in 1951. We were five down with eight to play."

Hodges, who also remembers '51 and the Giants' miracle run past the Dodgers, but with less relish than Durocher, was also somber. "We have to win the next two," he said, "there's no doubt about it."

Elsewhere in the National League Friday night, Montreal tripped St. Louis 7-5, Houston took Atlanta 7-4 in 12 innings, Los Angeles battered Cincinnati 9-3 and San Diego whipped San Francisco 7-4.

Willie Stargell was the key man in Pittsburgh's big victory over the Mets. The Pirate left fielder threw out the potential tying run at the plate in the eighth inning and then singled home the clincher in the bottom of the eighth.

The Mets were trailing 3-2 with two on and two out in the eighth when Bud Harrelson singled to left. Stargell charged the hit and fired to the plate, beating Ken Boswell by several steps.

"There was a challenge on both parts," said Stargell. "The situation calls for him to run. I figured I had to make a good throw. I wouldn't say that throw was my best throw, but it was good enough."

In the bottom of the eighth, Manny Sanguillen ripped his third hit of the game, moved up on a walk and scored the deciding run on Stargell's hit. Tommy Davis had a two-run homer for Chicago.

Durocher summed up his feelings by saying simply, "I'm not going to leave here and jump off a building."

Dodgers Rip Cincinnati, 9-3

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati native Claude Osteen Friday night became the first left handed pitcher to defeat his hometown team at home as the Dodgers pumpe the Reds 9-3.

"It's about time I pitched a good game against them," said Osteen who has beaten the Reds twice in nine games in the past two years.

Osteen said he felt the wet astro turf and the longer fences at the Riverfront Stadium helped him win. "Boy those balls through the infield really took off," he said.

He said his main trouble this year, (16-13) has been his control. Osteen blamed this on a five game rotation on the Dodger pitching staff rather than four in past years.

A smiling Walter Alston, whose team was beaten out earlier by the Reds for the National League's western division said he really plans to enjoy the playoffs.

Tom Haller scored for the Dodgers in the first and fourth innings after singling and Los Angeles plated three more in the seventh on a single by Manny Mota and two miscues by Reds third baseman Tony Perez.

Bill Sudakis doubled home two more in a four run ninth inning.

Lee May hit his 32nd homer in the seventh scoring John Bench and Bob Tolan scored on a second inning error by Osteen.

Lion-Panther Grid Tips

The Shamrocks were everywhere Friday night in Miami Trace Stadium. Sramrock fans, that is. The Dublin following combined with Miami Trace fans to give the Panthers an almost full house for their home opener.

The Lions had a good following by their loyal fans at Franklin Heights. Even though Washington trailed the majority of the ball game the fans stayed behind them and didn't give up hope.

A large marching unit from Dublin and Miami Trace's unusually large entourage of musicians staged a spectacular halftime show in the Panther Stadium Friday night. Especially spectacular were the twirlers in colorful tights.

Mike Canfield, the Falcon's number one kicking specialist, connected on two of three extra point attempts. Canfield, who kicked "socker style," approached the ball from a near 35-degree angle.

The big ground-gainer for Miami Trace against Dublin was halfback Tony Grooms, a hard-running sophomore. He gained 91 yards in 16 carries for a 5.7 yard per carry average. Jeff Blake wound up with 41 yards in 19 trips, but was sidelined part of the game with an ankle injury. It was his first full game played at tailback.

After breaking several tackles, there was only one man between Jeff Pollock and a touchdown on his 89 yard kickoff return. He wore a gold and white uniform. It appeared as though the referee covering the play tripped up that defender between Jeff and paydirt, and Pollock went the rest of the way on his own.

Pete Jones completed nine of 18 passes Friday night in his first full game at the Miami Trace quarterback position. He totaled out with 78 yards in the air, with one pass going to Glen Gifford for a touchdown. He also suffered three interceptions.

Jeff Pollock was the leading ground gainer for the Lions as he has been all year. Donald Johns was second as he picked up 14 yards, compared to Pollock's 47.

Glen Gifford, only a sophomore, tucked in four passes Friday night for a total of 45 yards (he wears number 45) and a touchdown. Jeff Spears caught two aeriels, Jeff Blake two and Randy Anschutz one.

Doug Looker played fullback for the first time Friday night and he picked up four yards on two carries. Donald Johns was operating from the halfback position.

Leading Panther tackler against Dublin was linebacker Jay Waddle, who was in on 11 tackles, seven of them all-alone grabs. Neil Noble made seven tackles, Mike Morrow and Jeff Spears had six each and Steve Warnock, Jeff Blake, Kelly Bowen and David Weade captured four Shamrocks apiece.

David DeWeese was the leading receiver for Washington C. H. He grabbed three passes for 31 yards. Rick Howard was the leading receiver for the Falcons. He caught one pass for four yards.

Sophomore halfback Frank Bohanon (No. 20) carried the ball 15 times for 87 yards for Dublin. Halfback Dave Perdue (No. 22) had five trips for 23 yards. Fullback Gene Shipp, the 242-pounder, only carried twice, but gained 42 yards.

Bob Self had the only interception in the game. His golden hands set up the Lions' second score.

MT Boosters Slate Meeting

Panthers Demolished By Shamrocks, 33-14

By DON EDWARDS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

The Miami Trace Panthers gained the yardage on the ground, affected an adequate passing game and even took a bulging 14-0 lead, but wound up on the short end of a 33-14 setback at the hands of an alert Dublin Shamrock team Friday night at Miami Trace Stadium.

The Panthers were off and sailing to what appeared an easy victory, but mistakes cost them a disastrous second quarter, and consequently the game. The mistake parade continued to plague the Lucas-men in the second half, killing any generation of movement the Panthers may have gained.

Dublin had no first downs and only nine yards of offense to its credit midway through the second period, so complete was Miami Trace's domination of the game. The Panthers had even sailed to a 14-0 lead with very little difficulty.

THEN DISASTER struck. Kerry Kerston, Dublin's deep back, took Jeff Blake's kickoff down the left sideline for an 85-yard touchdown. Tackle Craig Mast blocked a punt, teammate Mike Shuman scooped it up and he ran 25 yards for a touchdown. And, an intercepted pass set up yet another Dublin paydirt within a span of minutes.

The turn-around of momentum was so complete, the Shamrocks were leading 18-14. At the half, the leaders still had only two first downs and 72 yards of offense (all but nine were gained in the last minute and a half in the second quarter).

MIAMI TRACE still ran into trouble in the second half, coughing up a fumble at its own 44-yard line to set up another Dublin score. Even later in the period when the Panthers moved to the Dublin five, lost yardage set them back to the 12 and Dublin intercepted a Pete Jones pass in the endzone.

With a fizzle of both offenses, Miami Trace found itself with the ball and its back at the goal line. Tony Grooms carried the ball twice, fumbling the second time on the 16-yard line. Two plays later, Dublin romped in for the final score.

The mistake bugaboo experienced by the Panthers was so complete that every Dublin score was handed to the Shamrocks on a silver platter.

MIAMI TRACE's best offensive thrust of the evening came in the opening series of the game. Engineered by quarterback Pete Jones and the running of tailback Jeff Blake and halfback Tony Grooms, the Panthers moved from their own 23 for a score. Three passes in succession, from Jones to Jeff Spears, Jeff Blake and Glen Gifford, scored the paydirt. Blake converted a kick for the 7-0 lead.

Holding Dublin to only nine yards, the Panthers accepted a punt on their own 34 late in the first quarter and ended up in the endzone midway in the second period. Blake ran the final two yards for the score and added an extra point kick for the 14-0 lead.

With 6:07 remaining in the second period, Kerston took the kickoff behind a wall for 85 yards and a score. He was never touched. An attempted conversion run failed.

A stalled Miami Trace offense was forced to kick and the punt was blocked at the MT 40. Shuman scooped up the loose ball on the 28 and raced home for Dublin's second score. A conversion pass failed.

ONLY 40 seconds later, a Pete Jones pass was intercepted by Shuman at the Dublin 30. Fullback Gene Shipp charged to the MT 42 and Frank Bohanon romped to the 20. Two plays later, Shipp bolted off left tackle for 20 yards and a score with 44 seconds remaining in the half. A conversion kick attempt failed.

Miami Trace stopped Dublin cold on its first attempt on offense in the second half. But a fumble at the MT 44 spelled disaster. Bohanon carried the bulk of the load for Dublin and plunged in for a score from two yards out with 7:10 remaining in the third stanza. Quarterback Todd Greiner ran in the extras to give the Shamrocks a 26-14 lead.

Miami Trace, with the help of a roughing the kicker penalty and a fumble recovery after losing the ball momentarily, marched 79 yards and threatened to score. But a Jones pass was intercepted in the endzone and Dublin took over on the 20 with only a few seconds left in the third.

With 4:15 remaining in the game, after both teams failed to generate any momentum, Grooms' fumble gave Dublin the ball on the MT 16. Bohanon scored two plays later from the four and Shawn Gwilliams kicked the final point, leveling the score at 33-14.

The Shamrocks were out-dueled, 13-9, in first downs, were outgained in total offense, 196-188 yards and were out-gunned in the air by nine passes to none. But, the scoreboard told the bleak tale for the Panthers who will be heading into SCOL action next Friday against Greenfield McClain still without a victory.

F&G Members Plan Matches, Work Day

Members of the Fayette County Fish and Game Association are reminded that regular rifle and pistol matches will be held beginning at 1 p.m. Sunday at the association's Stafford Road range.

Ron Burns, president, also reminded members that Sunday is a scheduled work day at the lodge and everyone is urged to bring trowels and putty knives to do cement work on the building.

Boy Choir Slates Rehearsal Tuesday

The Fayette County Boys' Choir, busy with voice tests during the past week, will conclude its series of tryouts Tuesday evening when the first rehearsal of the season is scheduled.

The choir will meet at 7 p.m. in a basement room of the First Presbyterian Church, opposite the Post Office, and boys participating in the school football program may report as late as 7:15 p.m.

The new music director is Gene Pummell, formerly of the Miami Trace faculty and now at Greeneview High School near Jamestown. Mrs. Robert E. Willis, who founded the organization 15 years ago, is the permanent adviser.

Mrs. Willis said that the choir will be ready to accept concert engagements Nov. 1, and arrangements may be made by calling her at 335-0918. Plans already are being made for the spring educational trip which will take the group to Kentucky.

Jim Nilan, a senior at Washington Senior High School, will be the choir's accountant this year.

"The response to voice tests has been good," Mrs. Willis said, adding that there are still vacancies to be filled through the tryouts.

Rumor has it that it takes a genius to make a soufflé. This is positively not true. Anyone can succeed in making a beautiful, puffy, delectable soufflé every time — anyone, that is, who faithfully follows a few basic rules. Actually air — that most ephemeral ingredient — is at the heart of a soufflé's success and depends on the way the eggs are handled. The most important part of soufflé making is the beating of the egg whites. They should have as much air as possible incorporated into them, which is easiest with a balloon whip. You must also have a well-regulated oven. Now you're ready to become a soufflé chef.

CAUGHT IN DRAFT — Sgt. Charles Hopkins, 15-year career soldier, holds up the notice he received in Houston, Tex., from his hometown draft board in Fort Wayne, Ind. The board wants to know where he is and if he is eligible for the draft. "I joined the Army before I was old enough to register," said Hopkins, now 33 years old.

Hickel Hits 'Rhetoric' Of Agnew

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a remark that appeared to put him at odds again with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel says the "rhetoric of polarization" is a negative force, like rioting and violence, that is dividing the country.

Hickel himself wrote the remarks into a speech Friday to the American Association of Student Governments. He did not mention Agnew directly in his speech.

But, in a question-and-answer period following it, Hickel was asked, "What is Spiro Agnew doing" in terms of keeping the country together?

"I'll answer that," Hickel said. "He's out raising money for the Republican party."

When the audience rocked with laughter over the remark, Hickel added, "There's nothing wrong with that."

In his speech, the secretary said, "Of course rioting and violence are negative. So is the rhetoric of polarization. As hard as we may try, we cannot tear the nation together."

"Some people fear an economic depression," Hickel went on. "I fear more a depression of the spirit. And there's no excuse for it."

The nation needs an orator like the late Winston S. Churchill, who "voiced the greatness of a people," he said.

In a letter written to President Nixon last May, Hickel made it clear he thought Agnew's sharp criticism of young dissenters was dividing the nation.

Aides said Hickel was speaking Friday of polarization "from many quarters."

Municipal League Asks State Changes

Six city councilmen and the city manager attended the Ohio Municipal League conference in Columbus Tuesday through Friday noon.

During the conference, the league approved a resolution on proposed state legislation regarding municipalities. The resolution was drafted in a committee of which Washington C. H. City Manager Clarence A. Christman is a member.

Councilmen attended meetings on city financing and income tax programs and several general meetings. The city manager was present at meetings on municipal finance, municipal clerks and law enforcement training.

The resolution passed by the league dealt primarily with financial problems of municipalities and the relationship of those political subdivisions to the state government.

The resolution calls for a reform of the tax structure that will maintain the integrity of municipalities, increased state participation in federal programs that provide funds to municipalities, a request that state standards and requirements no longer be passed by the General Assembly without provisions for adequate financing.

State support of highways and limited access roads through municipalities, an increase in the municipal share of state collected sales and use taxes to a minimum of 10 per cent, and the replacement of the local vehicle license plate tax with a $10 increase in the cost of the plates, with the additional funds to be returned to the areas of vehicle registration.

The resolution also calls for redefinition of relations between municipalities and public employees, a change in annexation requirements and a means of removing unincorporated "island" areas in municipalities. A recommendation that the state compensate municipalities for financial losses that may result from homestead exemptions also was included in the resolution.

Demos Blast Loan Probe Jury Collapse

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Democrats have branded the collapse of a special Franklin County grand jury probe into the state loan scandal a case of partisan irresponsibility.

The grand jury will be dissolved Monday following the announcement Friday the jury's authority was to extend only until the opening of the regular fall grand jury session which began Sept. 4.

Franklin County Prosecutor C. Howard Johnson and his assistant, John Peck, both Republicans, said Friday they had assumed the special jury had been given authority to continue its investigation through to completion.

Johnson said no one at his office had noticed the entry in the court journal limiting the life of the special jury.

The dissolution of the jury will prevent testimony from a number of top political figures, mostly Republicans, and officials of Crofters, Inc., the firm arranging many of the loans in question.

The special probe had already heard scores of witnesses in the two months since the impaneling on July 20.

Democratic State Chairman Eugene O'Grady called the failure of the special jury to conclude its proceedings or to return indictments a means of avoiding "possible embarrassment to Republican officials or candidates before the November elections."

O'Grady said the two "Republican attorneys had conveniently postponed requiring the Crofters people" and State Treasurer John D. Herbert, GOP candidate for attorney general, among others, "to explain their firsthand involvement with illegal loans."

"So far as we can learn," O'Grady said, "the jury had to rely solely on the investigations conducted by State Auditor Roger Cloud, who was involved as a principal in the illegal loans." Cloud is the GOP candidate for governor.

The Home Buyer's Problems

CAN YOU LOSE BY OVER-PRICING YOUR PROPERTY?

Many vendors mistakenly think they can't. If there property doesn't sell, they reason, they can always reduce the price later. Meanwhile, they MAY have made a sale at the high price. If not, they have lost nothing. Realtors in constant touch with the buyers know it is not that simple.

Experience shows that in almost all cases where a property is put on the market at a given time, there are a limited number of good prospects for it. The Realtor tries to locate that "right" buyer whose needs match the property for sale.

When the buyer is located and he backs off because of high price, he is unlikely to be interested when the price is finally reduced. The chances are he will have bought elsewhere.

In this way, a property that is otherwise very saleable, remains unsold while the best prospects are by-passed. The vendor may later have to take a below-market price because the property has been on the market so long it has a bad image with buyers suspicious that something is wrong with it.

Consult a competent Realtor. You may well save many times his fee. See you next week.

Economy Loan Co. Plans Fall Move To Court Street

The Economy Loan Co. office will be moved from its present location, 111 N. Fayette St., into a 20-by-85-foot room at 206 E. Court St. as soon as extensive remodeling is completed — hopefully by Oct. 15.

Donald Stebbins, Economy manager, said the walls have been paneled, but that carpet remains to be laid and the new furniture, fixtures and equipment moved in.

The room, owned by Paul Lipschultz, formerly was occupied by Sportique, a women's apparel shop. It has been vacant for several months.

Donald Gibson, a former manager of the Economy Loan Co. office here and now a district representative of the company, recalls that the Economy Loan's office here was established in 1921 in a second floor of the Passmore Building, Court and Fayette Sts., and that in the early years it was opened only two days a week.

The office has been in its present location for about 40 years, Stebbins said.

"BARBS" AND "GOOF BALLS" THEY "PUT YOU DOWN"

The first Barbiturate was introduced in 1903. It was not until 1940 that their addiction qualities became a cause for concern. The dosage of Barbiturates must be controlled by a physician to benefit.

They are prescribed for high blood pressure, epilepsy, insomnia, mental illness and to relax patients.

Serious problems occur when they are illegally obtained. Without physician supervision, larger dosage causes confusion, slurred speech and staggering. The ability to think, to concentrate and to work is lessened. Users can become irritable, angry and fighting mad. Overdoses can cause death.

The next of the Public Service Messages will discuss the Hallucinogenic Drugs that credulous users believe can improve their personality.
